Autralia

Press Communique:

.... Although the social systems of China and Australia are different, the two countries can and should develop relations on the basis of the five principles of mutual respect for sovereignty and territorial integrity, mutual non-aggression, non-interference in each other's internal affairs, quality and mutual benefit, and peaceful co-existence. This is not only in the interests of the two peoples, but will also contribute to an improvement in international relations.

.... They agreed that both government should study the practical possibilities of further developing economic relations and investigate prospects for long-term agreements involving other commodities.

The two sides also agreed to promote actively further exchanges of views between Australian and Chinese officials on questions of mutual interest.

Nepal

Jen-min Jih-pao Editorial:

Both China and Nepal are developing countries belonging to the Third World.... The Chinese people are willing to strengthen unity with the people of Nepal and all other nations and peoples opposed to aggression, subversion, intervention, domination and bullying and join then in common struggle.

China and Nepal are linked by mountains and rivers and have been close neighbors cherishing a traditional friendship since ancient times. .... Since the establishment of diplomatic relations between China and Nepal in 1955, the friendship between the two countries has made new development. .... From then on, the economic and technical cooperation and cultural exchanges between the two countries have been continuously strengthened. The friendly relations of cooperation between our two countries have set a fine example for the relations between countries based on the five principles of peaceful co-existence. The Chinese people treasure their friendship with the Nepalese people and will strive to consolidate and develop this friendship.

("Jen-min Jih-pao Editorial Warmly Welcomes Distinguished Nepalese Guests," NCNA-English, Peking, Dec. 8, 1973--SCMP 73-51/37-38)

Chou En-lai, Premier:

China is a developing socialist country and belongs to the Third World.... The Chinese Government and people will, as always, resolutely support the Government and people of Nepal in their just struggle against foreign interference and in defense of national independence and state sovereignty.

China and Nepal have been friendly neighbors since ancient times. .... We have all along sympathized with and supported each other in the struggle against imperialism and colonialism. We are pleased by the fact that the traditional friendship between the Chinese and Nepalese peoples and the friendly relations and cooperation between our two countries have been constantly consolidated and strengthened since the establishment of diplomatic relations between our two countries.

Romania

Li Hsien-nien, Vice Premier:

The peoples of China and Romania have cemented a profound friendship between them in long revolutionary struggles. They have always sympathized with and supported each other in the struggle against imperialism and big-power hegemonism. The friendly relations between our two parties, two countries and two peoples are founded on the basis of Marxism-Leninism and proletarian internationalism, and have been constantly developing in recent years. The contacts in various fields between our two countries have helped promote mutual understanding and deepen our friendship.

Sierra Leone

Jen-min Jih-pao Editorial:

Both China and Sierra Leone are countries of the Third World. The people of our two countries enjoy a traditional friendship and have always sympathized with and supported each other in the common struggle against imperialism, colonialism and neo-colonialism. ... The establishment of diplomatic relations between our two countries in 1971 opened up still broader prospects for their friendly cooperation. We are convinced that President Stevens' current visit to China will make new contributions to enhancing the relations of friendship and cooperation between the two countries.

Chou En-lai, Premier:

Though separated by vast oceans, China and Sierra Leone are both developing countries belonging to the Third World. We have always sympathized with and supported each other in our common cause of opposing imperialism and building our respective countries. The formal establishment of diplomatic relations between China and Sierra Leone in 1971 has opened a new chapter in the development of friendly relations between our two countries. In the past two years and more, the fraternal ties between our two peoples have steadily strengthened, and the friendly relations and cooperation between our two countries have developed satisfactorily.

United States

Chi Peng-fei, Foreign Minister:

There are undoubtedly difference of views between our two sides on a series of questions, but as shown by experience in the past two years and more, it is beneficial for the two sides to have candid exchanges of views.... The mutual understanding between the two peoples has deepened, and their friendship strengthened. This is a good start and accords with the interests and desires of our peoples.

("Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei Gives Banquet for Dr. Kissinger and His Party," NCNA-English, Peking, Nov. 10, 1973--SCMP 73-47/89-91)

Communique:

The two sides agreed that in present circumstances it is of particular importance to maintain frequent contact at authoritative levels in order to exchange views and, while not negotiating on behalf of third parties, to engage in concrete consultations on issues of mutual concern.

Exchanged have deepened understanding and friendship between the two peoples. The two sides studied the question of enlarging the exchanges between the two countries and agreed upon a number of new exchanges for the coming year.

The two sides stated that they would continue their efforts to promote the normalization of relations between China and the United States on the basis of the Shanghai Communique.

Viet Nam

Jen-min Jih-pao Editorial:

China and Viet Nam are close neighbors linked by rivers and mountains. The peoples of China and Viet Nam are comrades-in-arms and brothers who have shared weal and woe. In recent years the traditional friendship between the two peoples has made new developments in the course of their common struggle. We are convinced that this visit by President Nguyen Huu Tho will certainly make new contributions to further consolidating and developing the militant friendship and unity of the people of China with the people of South Viet Nam and the Vietnamese people as a whole.

("Jen-min Jih-pao Editorial Warmly Welcomes Close Comrades-in-Arms from South Viet Nam," NCNA-English, Peking, Nov. 18, 1973--SCMP 73-48/83-84)

Chou En-lai, Premier:

The Chinese Government and people firmly support the Provisional Revolutionary Government of the Republic of South Vietnam and the Government of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam in their just stand for the strict implementation of the Paris Agreement. We are deeply convinced that the South Vietnamese people's cause of building a peaceful, independent, democratic and prosperous South Vietnam, and proceeding to the peaceful reunification of the country will be victorious.

....It can be seen that it is imperialist contention for hegemony that has deprived the world of tranquillity and that genuine peace and security can be achieved only by relying on the unity and struggle of the people of all countries. The Chinese Government and people will stand together with the people the world over and wage a common struggle for the anti-imperialist revolutionary cause.

China and Vietnam are close to each other as members of one family. The Chinese people have always regarded the South Vietnamese people as their close comrades-in-arms and brothers. We have supported and encouraged each other in the protracted anti-imperialist struggle. Our unity and friendship have stood the test of history and are unbreakable. In the years to come, the Chinese people will, as they did in the past, follow Chairman Mao's teachings and give all-out support to the just cause of the South Vietnamese people and the Vietnamese people as a whole till complete victory is won.

("Premier Chou En-lai's Speech," NCNA-English, Peking, Nov. 8, 1973--SCMP 73-48/126-130)

Wu Teh, Chairman of the Peking Municipal Revolutionary Committee:

The people of China and Vietnam are "both comrades and brothers" and "are of the same family," sharing the same destiny and life-breath. In the long anti-imperialist revolutionary struggle, we have always sympathized with and supported each other, forging a deep revolutionary friendship and militant unity. Our unity and friendship can stand any test and will not be disrupted by any force. We will as in the past resolutely support the just struggles of the South Vietnamese people as well as the just stand of the Provisional Revolutionary Government of the Republic of South Vietnam and the Government of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam with respect to the implementation of the Paris Agreement and sternly condemn the Saigon authorities for their crime of violating the Paris Agreement.

("Wu Teh's Speech," NCNA-English, Peking, Nov. 19, 1973-- SCMP 73-48/174-175)

Joint Communique:

Both sides note with satisfaction that the great friendship and militant unity between the Chinese and Vietnamese peoples, which have stood the test of protracted revolutionary struggles, are growing stronger and developing continuously. .... Both sides pledge to further strengthen their mutual support and cooperation and endeavor to foster this great friendship and close militant unity so that they will be unbreakable and everlasting.
